I need a Japanese Translator. Help me. Please. Even in the form of a joint. I beg of you. Yes, there is furi.

If any proofreader/cleaner/redrawer/typesetter wants to help out (not in form of joint, sorry), that'd be great. PM me on Batoto, Tweet me, Private Message me there, anywhere. Experience not explicitly necessary, but I do not have the time to train you nor do I have the motivation to do so.

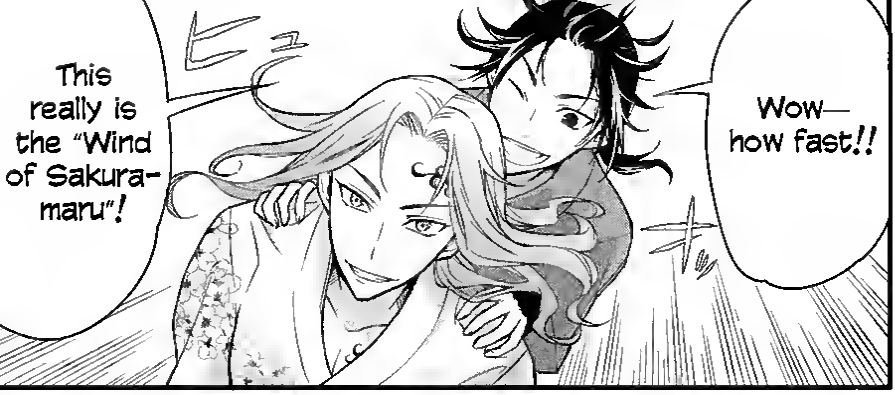
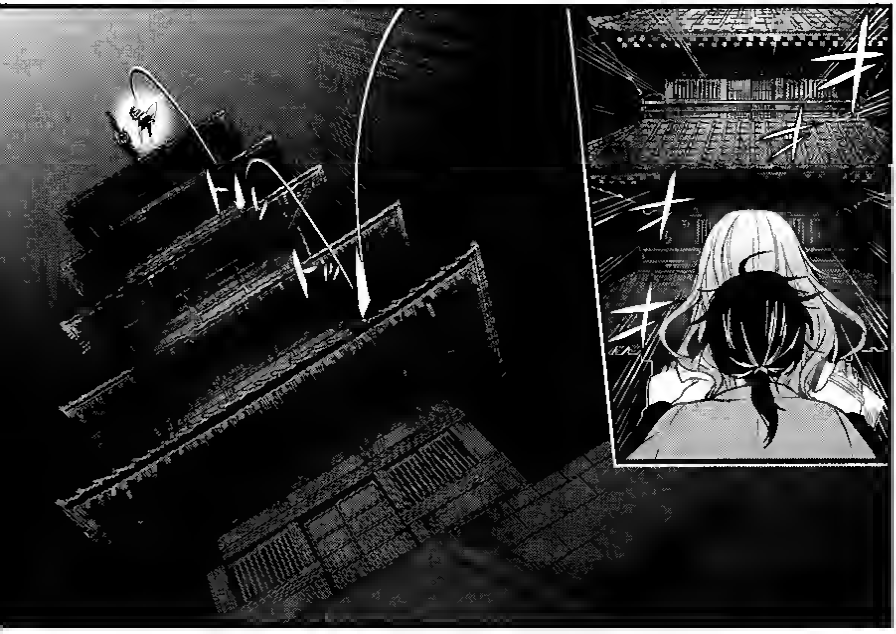
Let's go over there, then!
Yes, yes, I got it.



This really is the "Wind of Sakura-maru"!
Wow— how fast!!



Up here, you have a clear vantage point of where we were.

You've never seen an enja's flame before, right?
This is what it looks like, Suzume.

EXCUSE US!!

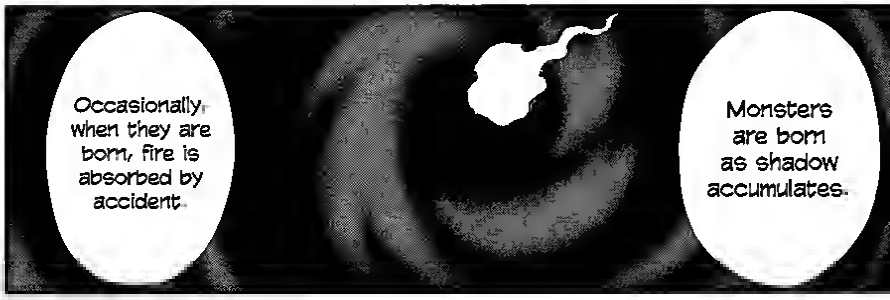
Is that fire really evil?
Is it really from a monster?
Suijin, please help the firefighters, leave the enja with no means of escape.

What the heck is that thing?
Even though it looks like a snake monster, it might not be one.



Occasionally, when they are born, fire is absorbed by accident.
Monsters are born as shadow accumulates.

and it scared everyone.
So, the enja was created...
It absorbed fire, huh...

Also, what is in that water? It's so strong.
Because the cursed flames cannot be extinguished with ordinary water,
The water used is holy water blessed by Suijin.

It's "Suijin's Sky Fire Brigade"

However, simply wearing the wings does not guarantee the ability to fly.

Ah, and I even got illustrations despite the long line!
Really?
That was amazing! Fire brigades from my world were completely different.

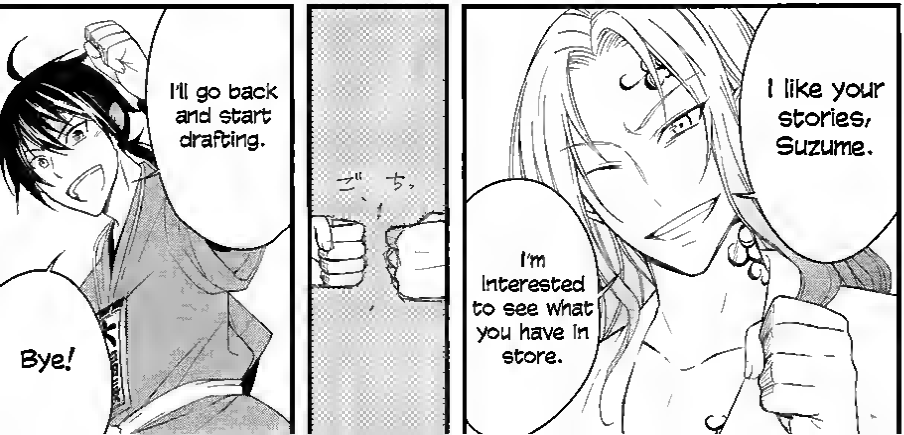
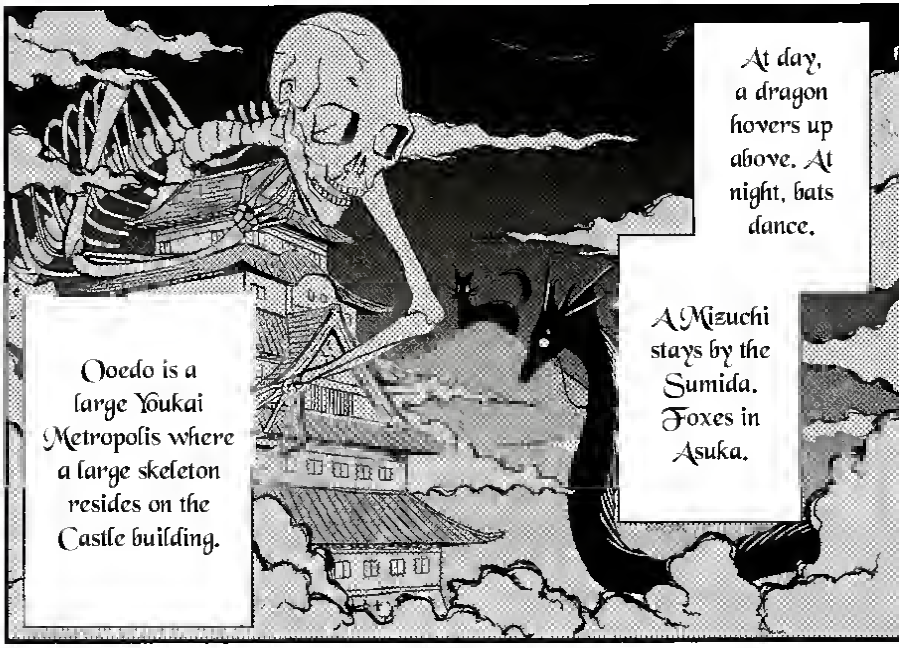
Thanks, Sakuramaru!
At this rate, my story will be in tomorrow's Kawaraban!



I'll go back and start drafting.
Bye!
I like your stories, Suzume.
I'm interested to see what you have in store.

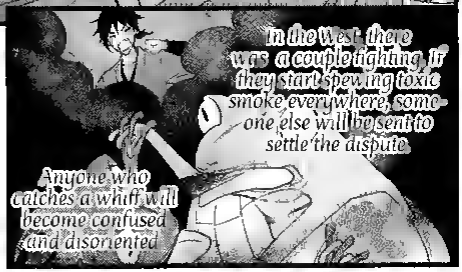


Ooedo is a large Youkai Metropolis where a large skeleton resides on the Castle building.
At day, a dragon hovers up above. At night, bats dance.
A Mizuchi stays by the Sumida. Foxes in Asuka.

Although the town may seem tranquil,

and the strange townsfolk live happily together,

In the North, there are rumors spreading that, due to moisture and soil, a Keukegen has returned.
It even made the landlord bawl and care for it.



In the West, there was a couple fighting. If they start spewing toxic smoke everywhere, someone else will be sent to settle the dispute.
Anyone who catches a whiff will become confused and disoriented.

Good Morning, Master!

I was writing my report on the incident with the enja last night.
The rough draft is finished already.
The only thing left is to touch up the illustrations.

HURRY UP AND EAT BREAKFAST BEFORE YOU WORK!
